StoryLab Cambridge (storylabresearch.com) is hiring. You'll join the interdisciplinary team of StoryLab Research Institute, within the Faculty of Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences. The Institute is fast developing a reputation as a respected voice within the creative industries in the UK and internationally, driving increased diversity, creativity, accessibility and transparency in storytelling. The award-winning institute, builds on a strong record of delivering impactful research, addressing complex topics in contemporary discussion and offering new and immersive perspectives to new audiences for positive societal impact.

This is an exciting opportunity for the successful Fellow to join the Research Institute at an important point in its development and take a key role in its activities. With a PhD or nearing completion, or other postgraduate research qualification, you must be familiar with practice-based and/or interdisciplinary creative research and have experience of successful bid writing. You're expected to have advanced IT, research and communication skills. Knowledge of the field(s) of digital humanities, narrative and emerging /immersive media would be an advantage. You'll typically engage in research and publishing in the field of digital culture, creative practice and fostering collaborative research initiatives that bring together the different strands of the research institute.

It is expected that interviews will take place on the afternoon of 6 March 2019

Informal enquiries can be made to Dr Shreepali Patel, Director of StoryLab, on 01223 692838 or Shreepali.patel@anglia.ac.uk
